HISTORY OF THE NEW WORLD CALLED AMERICA

By EDWARD JOHN PAYNE, Fellow of University College, Oxford.

"This work will remain one of the most important, if not the most important, on the history of the New World yet published. . . . It will delight all those who take an interest in the origins of history: it cannot be neglected by any student of American history. It is eminently a book for the Academy.

"Leads the student in a novel direction. . . . The elucidation of the subject surpasses in clearness anything of the kind we have ever read before."—New York Times.

"He has produced a volume of extraordinary interest, not more remarkable for its learning than for the extreme freshness of the point of view."—New York Times (second notice).

PUBLIC FINANCE.

By C. F. BASTABLE, LL.D., Professor of Political Economy in the University of London. 8vo. $4.00.

"Is likely to be a standard work. Its literary merit, its divisions and general scope, its clearness and avoidance of undue regard to the controversies which are only of to-day, are though essential features of such a work. The higher qualities of a philosophical and judicious treatment, and a transparent willingness to adjust the balance of evidence, are not wanted so much as they are by students of political science everywhere, and not a few men more or less prominent in municipal life will find instruction and warning in its pages."—Scotsman.
